EMMERSON INAUGURATED AS GOVERNOR AT NOON

NEW GOVERNOR TELLS OF HIS MAIN PROGRAM

Inaugural Speech Devoted to Plans for Commonwealth

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14—(AP)—Vowing by the memory of his forefathers to do his best, Governor Louis L. Emmerson pledged decided changes for Illinois to his inaugural address today. Thronged that cheered his appearance, hushed to a stifled stillness, as in a brief message he urged an early end to the new pardon and parole board, a three cent gas tax, and a state police force.

"Personally," he said, "I have but one ambition, and that is to give the state the best that is in me during the term of my office. Illinois is my native state. My ancestors settled here more than a hundred years ago, just as the state was being admitted to the Union. My grandfather served in the General Assembly with Abraham Lincoln and he and others of my family, throughout the years, have taken a deep interest in the political and economic development of the commonwealth.

"I should be disloyal to the memory of these ancestors if I did not, as I am assuming the responsibilities of the office of governor, solemnly resolve to fulfill to the best of my ability this great public trust. I do so resolve, and I ask your interest co-operation in helping to make the coming administration a success.

"Governor of all the people" was the plea with which his inaugural address opened. His voice, multiplied by amplifiers and the power of radio, carried this message out over the heads of 5,000 who packed the state arsenal, to overflow crowds without and to the invisible audience beyond, scattered as far and again as his new found responsibility and authority reached.

Door Open To All
"The door of the executive offices will be open," he said, "to Republicans and Democrats alike," and then he promised "impartiality and fairness to all."

Extension of Illinois hard road system was his first pledge. He urged a three cent gasoline tax, enacted promptly rather than another bond issue. By September 30, 1929, he said, the present fund will be exhausted on roads already under contract. A 3 cent gas tax and automobile license fees, he said, would enable completion of the present hard road system by 1934.

Completion of the Illinois Deep waterway was urged next. Revision of the Revenue laws, extension of the state's charitable system by additional institutions without a bond issue, new medical and dentistry buildings for the University of Illinois, in Chicago, and fair freight rates for Illinois coal, were offered as his earnest suggestions, in that order.

Traction problems in Chicago, he next said, are Chicago's problem and should be threshed out before brought to the legislature. He urged settlement and a pull together for the next world's fair time in Chicago.

Tribute to Women
Women were paid a decided tribute. "Suggestions and advice from women's organizations," he said, "will be welcomed by this administration."

A state highway police force "in lieu of the present inadequate highway patrol system" was his next requirement. Criminals, he declared, with high powered automobiles and availing themselves of the thousands of miles of hard roads, elude local law enforcement authorities. To meet this we need a competent force of trained men.

Re-apportionment of the state, to cure the unfriendly feeling between Chicago and downstate, was next urged, and then protection of the belt, development of a state Capitol group in Springfield "second to none," with construction of a new wing for the Centennial Building; close co-operation with the federal government in care of war veterans; encouragement of aviation; extension of the state park system and beautification of Chicago's lake front; conservation of wild life and reforestation, came in for strong endorsement and then came his conclusion.

"I urge," he said, "the completion of the work of this Assembly as expeditiously as possible and then since die adjournment at an earlier date than has been customary." Pointing the way to accomplishment, he advised the assemblymen to set forward "the last day for the introduction of bills."

"And then adhere to it."

Economy Defined
Economy for his administration was defined. He urged that the care for private enterprise characterize the methods of legislators.

"It is highly important," he said, "that we curb the ever-increasing (Continued on page 2)

Recommendations of New Governor in His Inaugural

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1. A gasoline tax of three cents per gallon to complete the hard roads system.

2. Abolishment of the present parole board of nine members, their duties to be again vested in the director of welfare and a superintendent of pardons and paroles.

3. An addition to the Centennial Building in the Capitol group at Springfield.

4. A state police force, to replace the present "inadequate" highway patrol.

5. New buildings for the departments of medicine and chemistry of the University of Illinois at Chicago.

6. A definite, ten-year building program for state charitable and penal institutions, to be financed without a bond issue.

7. Working out of an equitable taxation system.

8. Fair freight rates for Illinois coal.

9. Additional funds, if constitutionally proper to appropriate them, for completion of the Illinois waterway.

10. That the assembly do everything in its power to secure from Congress favorable consideration for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project.

11. Amendment of the Australian Ballot act to allow the printing of constitutional amendment proposals on the regular ballot.

12. Favorable consideration to Cook county's taxation bills, to allow the reassessment of property to be completed.

13. Transfer of the control of the Chicago Research and Educational Hospitals to the University of Illinois.

14. Clarification of the "good time" rule in relation to penal sentences.

15. Help Chicago solve its traction problems, after a solution has been agreed to in Chicago.

16. Encourage the use of products of Illinois mines and factories.

17. Legislation to strengthen the hands of law enforcement officials.

18. Careful consideration to legislative recommendations from women's organizations.

19. A satisfactory solution of the re-apportionment problem.

20. Since the adjournment of the legislature "as expeditiously as possible."

RE-ALIGNMENT OF DIPLOMATIC CORPS ASSURED

Hoover Will Make Numerous Shifts in Foreign Officials

BY JAMES L. WEST

Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—Many shifts in the American diplomatic corps during the Hoover administration are forecast by those who profess to have an understanding of the general viewpoint of the next President on the conduct of foreign relations.

In the opinion of some of Mr. Hoover's friends, men who have shown more than the average ability will be given recognition in the re-alignment of the corps. Steps also will be taken to encourage the younger men who would make diplomacy their life work and to make it possible for them to attain

Shoe Maker Found Dead in His Room Early this Morn

J. W. Thornburgh, who rooms at the Cornhusk A. Cross home, 916 West First street was found dead in his room this morning about 7 o'clock. The man had evidently arisen and started to dress when he was seized and died instantly. The deceased came to Dixon last week and expected to go to work in the Brown Shoe Company's plant this morning.

Saturday evening he complained of not feeling well and a physician was summoned. He appeared to be suffering from pleurisy and the physician prescribed for him and left, supposedly to return Sunday.

The doctor yesterday was informed that Thornburgh was much improved and did not require the physician's services at that time. Apparently he was well on the way to recovery when he is believed to have suffered a heart attack.

The remains were taken to the Jones funeral home and Coroner F. M. Barker ordered an inquest to be conducted tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The deceased has several children residing in Springfield, Ill., who were notified of the sudden death of their father today and are expected to be present at the inquest tomorrow.

COLD WEATHER WILL CONTINUE MOST OF WEEK

Mercury Down to 13 Below on Sunday Morning

After a week of cold weather the mercury dropped to 13 below zero Sunday morning for the second time in that period, according to the readings of the government thermometer at the Shuck & Bates grocery store bringing suffering to many families in Dixon and vicinity. Snow during the night and today brought an added touch of "old fashioned" winter.

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—The mercury fell to new low marks for the winter in the eastern part of the country today.

A sharp drop in temperature, accompanied by snow brought sub-zero weather to many points in New York state, while in western Pennsylvania thermometer readings were close to the zero mark.

Stony Creek had the lowest temperature in New York state with 12 below zero. At Ogdensburg, where it was 11 below zero the St. Lawrence river froze over for the first time this winter.

A light snow fall ushered the cold wave into New York City.

RELIEF UNCERTAIN
Chicago, Jan. 14—(AP)—All that had gone before was as nothing compared to the bitter cold that held middle and northwest America in a sub-zero hug over the week-end.

No relief of consequence is in sight before Wednesday, and the weather bureau was not prepared to say if the cold would be dissipated even then.

One of the low thermometer readings of the week end was at Duluth where a minus 34 was recorded. Green Bay, Wis., was another frigid spot with 20 below.

Chicago had an official 10 below, with some suburban thermometers showing as low as minus 17. There were three deaths directly attributable to cold, and there was several hospital cases of persons suffering frozen hands, feet or faces or persons injured in falls on slippery sidewalks and pavements.

Cary, Ill., was believed to have been the coldest spot in the state Sunday when the temperature hit 32 below during a ski meet. At Pana the snow and unusual cold brought out sleighs for the first time in a quarter of a century.

Among the 114 alarms the Chicago fire department answered yesterday was a spectacular blaze atop the Foreman National Bank building, under structure at La Salle and Washington streets. A salamander to keep the concrete from freezing was believed to have started the fire in the tower, which became a torch, lighting roofs of surrounding loop skyscrapers and sending flaming brands to nearby buildings. Scaffolding and tarpaulins from the 25th floor to the top of the 40 story building were destroyed by fire which was not as costly as it was threatening. Firemen worked 300 feet in the air in below-zero temperatures, and came down when the fire was out coated with ice. The loss was estimated at less than $5,000.

King and Queen Both Reported Improved

BULLETIN
London, Jan. 14—(AP)—Another patient was added to the list at Buckingham Palace this afternoon when it was announced that Prince George, youngest son of the King, had a slight cold, and was keeping to his room.

London, Jan. 14—(AP)—Good news came from both royal patients at Buckingham Palace this morning. After an interval of several days in which King George's condition was officially reported as stationary, today's medical bulletin brought the gratifying news that he was making progress. It was indicated that the advance was slow, but this was expected as all predictions have been that gains in strength were bound to be achieved only by gradual stages.

Queen Mary, it was authoritatively stated, was getting the better of her cold. It was evidently thought advisable, however, that she remain quietly in her rooms as a precaution.

Los Angeles Sails for Lakehurst Port

Port St. Joe, Fla., Jan. 14—(AP)—Facing ideal flying conditions, the Navy's dirigible Los Angeles took off from the tender Patoka in St. Joseph's Bay here at 11:28 a. m. today for a direct flight to its base at Lakehurst, N. J., after completing a 36-hour aerial tour of Florida.

NEGRO, WHO WORKED IN THIS CITY SHORT TIME, FROZE TO DEATH IN ROCKFORD SATURDAY

Was World War Veteran, Seeking Work in That City

(Telegraph Special Service)

Rockford, Jan. 14—Arthur Adams, 31 year old negro, 1414 South Court street, was found frozen to death in front of 723 Linden avenue, where he is believed to have fallen to the sidewalk in a stupor caused by intoxication. Adams, who came to Rockford last Tuesday from Dixon to find work, had left his rooming house at 6 o'clock Friday night in search of amusement. An inquest will be held by Coroner Walter Julian Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Adams, a World War veteran, came to Dixon about two weeks ago and boarded at the George Collins home, 1022 Madison avenue, up until last Tuesday. He worked for about ten days at the Sandusky Cement Company plant east of the city until he was laid off. Mr. Collins when interviewed this morning, stated the above facts.

Anna Cobwell, who lived in Dixon about four years ago, returned to Dixon two weeks ago in company with Adams, both men's homes being in Pensacola, Fla. They came to Dixon in search of employment and Adams secured work for a ten day period at the cement plant.

Mother is South
Cobwell had not been able to secure work here and after a few days, went to Rockford where he secured work in a rendering works. When Adams was laid off, he went to Rockford to locate Cobwell and secure employment and had been staying with John Bell, who resides on Noden street, Mr. Collins added.

Adams has an aged mother living in Pensacola, Fla., and his estranged wife resides in Chicago. It was thought that an effort would be made to have his body sent to his mother at Pensacola, although he has no other relatives living in the north.

The body was found shortly after daylight Saturday but it was not until mid-afternoon that identification was made. Tracks in the snow indicated that Adams was staggering some time before he fell. There were no papers in the pockets, which according to Rockford police were empty, but there was no indication of his having been robbed.

DIXON LAWYERS PLEAD FOR TWO NEGRO SLAYERS

Mrs. Anna Moore and J. P. Devine Appeared Before Board

A Springfield, Ill., news dispatch gives the following account of the hearing before the Illinois parole board last week for clemency in the case against R. E. Johnson and Al Lucas, now serving sentences for the murder of George Bush in the railroad yards at Nelson in 1919, reported in Saturday's Telegraph.

Attorneys Anna N. Moore and John P. Devine of Dixon, and Miller Stitzel, merchant of Nelson, appeared before the board on behalf of R. E. Johnson and Al Lucas, who are serving life sentences for killing George Bush during a fight among negro workmen at Nelson in 1919. Representative John P. Devine asked the board to commute the sentence to a definite term. He said that the men would not have been convicted of murder but for the fact that they were negroes without funds. He and Mrs. Moore volunteered their services in their behalf as did Mr. Stitzel of Nelson.

"At the worst," Mr. Devine told the members of the board, "this was a fight in which the man who was killed was shot at, at the other. There is grave doubt as to whether Johnson had a gun."

Mrs. Moore declared her conviction that the actual killing was by another man who escaped. The Dixon attorneys presented numerous affidavits made by citizens of Nelson which showed that Johnson was a peacemaker among the negro workmen instead of an aggressor. Mr. Stitzel gave evidence which was valuable to the board in commuting the sentences.

Cousin of Lincoln, 87, Died in West

Turlock, Cal., Jan. 14—(AP)—Miss Annie M. Hicks, 87, a cousin of Abraham Lincoln, died here yesterday. For 22 years she had been connected with Clinton College, Clinton, Ky., and for 16 years of that time was president of the institution. Coming to California 31 years ago, she did "face work" for the University of California for 20 years. During the seven years she lived here she devoted much of her time to writing.

POLICE SEARCH FOR DENTIST IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Estranged Wife Babe Ruth Died in Fire Friday Night

Watertown, Mass., Jan. 14—(AP)—Babe Ruth, home run king, today mourned his wife, while police sought for questioning Dr. Edward H. Kinder, Boston dentist, in whose home here Mrs. Ruth, known to neighbors for the last year and a half as Mrs. Helen Kinder, was burned to death last Friday night.

The New York Yankee star arrived in Boston from New York City yesterday just in time to halt the burial of the supposed Mrs. Kinder, from whom a death certificate had been issued on information supplied by the dentist.

While State Detective Edward P. O'Neill declared there was no evidence that a crime had been committed, the District Attorney ordered an autopsy performed and a search instituted for Kinder.

Ruth was prostrated by grief when he arrived in Boston from Scranton, Pa. From his hotel suite he gave a brief statement to newspapermen:

Separate Three Years
"My wife and I have not lived together for the last three years. During that time I have seldom met her. I have done all that I can to comply with her wishes. Her death is a great shock to me, that is all I can say now."

But Ruth, through his friend and legal adviser, John P. Feeney of Boston, immediately took steps to see that a new certificate was issued that the dead woman might be buried as Mrs. Ruth rather than as Mrs. Kinder.

Feeney and members of Mrs. Ruth's family decided to go to Wellesley, where the Babe's nine year old daughter Dorothy is a student in a private academy, and break the news of her mother's death.

The discovery that the supposed dentist's wife was Mrs. Ruth came with the publication last week of a picture of the woman found in the house. A friend of the Ruths identified it. Mrs. Ruth's sisters, the Misses Catherine and Nora Woodford of South Boston, were summoned and established identification.

Dentist Missing
Kinder, who was attending a boxing exhibition last Friday when his house caught fire, was paged at the show and returned to identify the dead woman as his wife and to make funeral arrangements. His whereabouts since then constituted a mystery today.

The dentist's father, William P. Kinder, and a brother, William F. Kinder, Jr., said they believed the couple had been married in Montreal about two years ago. The dentist had long been regarded as a close friend of the Ruths. His family and that of Mrs. Ruth lived in South Boston and, according to his father, he had known her before her marriage.

Ruth first met Helen Woodford shortly after he became a member of the Boston Red Sox in 1915. The girl had been a waitress and was employed at the time in a Back Bay restaurant near the ball park.

Late in 1915 or early in 1916 they were married and in September, 1922, they announced that 15 months previously a daughter had been born, but they had decided not to announce it earlier.

Salesman Held on Bad Check Charge

B. L. Whited, a traveling salesman was held to the grand jury under $500 bonds this morning by Justice M. J. Gannon on a charge of passing worthless checks. Whited was arrested in LaSalle Saturday afternoon and brought back to Dixon by Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber.

Whited is charged with having given a worthless check in the sum of $20 on a Hyde Park bank to the Hotel Dixon on January 10. The check was returned showing no funds to the credit of Whited and Chief Van Bibber was immediately notified and started an investigation which resulted in Whited's arrest. He will probably be taken into the County Court on an information late today.

to the higher posts, the personal cost of the maintenance of which now constitutes a bar to most of them.

Front Line in S. A.

There is little doubt that Latin-America will furnish the main field for aspiring career men while Herbert Hoover is in the White House.

A cardinal point of his foreign policy will be the fostering of relations with the republics to the south and since his good will tour it is evident that he regards this as a front line of American diplomacy.

Frequent changes of diplomatic representatives in the southern republics is regarded generally as undesirable by those who made the historic southward swing with the President-elect. They are convinced that it is essential to the fullest understanding between the United States and its sister countries who can remain at a post not only long enough to become thoroughly familiar with the language and customs of the people, but far beyond that time so that there will follow the benefits from the acquiring of this knowledge.

Another thing which was soon made evident to the members of the good will mission was that the recurring interventions by the United States into revolution-torn republics in Central America formed the basis for misunderstanding with other republics and especially for rather effective anti-American propaganda spread by the nationals of foreign nations.

One diplomat and another former diplomat had been invited to see him today. They were O. H. Hammond, Ambassador to Spain; and William Miller Collier, former Ambassador to Chile. Others will be called in before his departure for Florida, now tentatively set for Thursday.

GUN FIGHTER OF OLD DAYS, FRIEND OF RICKARD, DEAD

Wyatt Earp, Pioneer, Died in Los Angeles, Picturesque Life

Los Angeles, Jan. 14—(AP)—Another of the old west's links with its glamorous past is gone in the passing here of Wyatt Earp, gun fighter, whose blazing six-shooters, notched a dozen times, were for most of his life allied on the side of law and order.

Although Earp majored in gun-fighting and adventuring, his one contact with pugilism brought him unforgetable renown. Earp's so-called "raw" decision in the Bob Fitzsimmons-Tom Sharkey fight at San Francisco December 2, 1896, when he awarded the fight to Sharkey on a foul in the eighth round, caused a roar as much berated through the boxing world for years, and excited as much comment in its day as the long count given Gene Tunney at Chicago in 1927.

Part of Earp's life, after he had laid aside his guns, which spoke open in the wild and woolly days of Dodge City and Ellsworth, Kansas and Tombstone, Ariz., ran parallel with that of Tex Rickard, and a last vain effort to send a word of cheer to his friend, the promoter, contributed to his death.

Sent Message to Tex.

Although he had been ill for some time Earp left his bed here the day before Rickard died to send a telegram to his sick friend in Florida. The exertion caused a relapse and Earp died yesterday at the age of 80. His widow and a niece survive.

The funeral will be held Tuesday. The funeral was held Tuesday. The funeral was held Tuesday.

While the Fitzsimmons-Sharkey fight was a non-title bout, and the purse but $10,000, Earp's famous decision after Sharkey had been knocked limp into the ropes, raised a squawk that was heard in far-off Australia, home of the latter world's heavyweight champion, Fitzsimmons.

Earp, a man of prompt and bitter courage, is said to have worn his six-shooter into the ring the night of the fight, however, and despite vigorous ringside protest, escaped unscathed at physical violence.

Sharkey had to go to the courts to get his money, and the protested decision blackened prize-fighting.

At the age of 30 Earp began his career as a militant officer in Dodge City, where he was City Marshal for two years. Of many famous gun fighters in the cowtown, the one which he remembered was his battle with one "Curly Bill". From ambush "Curly Bill" sent a charge of buckshot into Earp. The Marshal was not stopped by his wounds and brought down the outlaw.

All Given Oaths.

Then turning to Oscar E. Carlstrom, he said, "are you ready to take the oath?" "I am," was the reply.

Mr. Carlstrom, after taking the oath, said he was "deeply grateful in my heart for the confidence placed in me, and pledge to the new Governor and state officers all cooperation in my power."

Omer Custer of Galesburg was next administered the oath, making no response. Others followed.

Directly before Mr. Emmerson took the oath, Len Small was introduced.

"My successor needs no introduction. He has been Secretary of State for the past two years. I bespeak for him the cooperation of this General Assembly."

Then turning to Emmerson he said: "I wish you success with your administration, and wish the state under your administration, peace, progress, and prosperity."

Speaker Shanahan then said, "Louis L. Emmerson, are you ready to take the oath?" He answered, "I am."

After the oath was administered by Chief Justice De Young, Shanahan turned to the audience.

"I take pleasure," he said, "in presenting to you His Excellency, Louis L. Emmerson, Governor of Illinois."

William J. Stratton, new Secretary of State, took the oath of office at the same time taking over the office of Secretary of State. This was done, apparently, so that the old and new offices of Mr. Emmerson would at no time come in conflict.

A picture of the military power of a Governor, which is so completely submerged in popular thought as to be almost out of mind, was seen in the prelude to the actual inaugural. Meeting at the Executive Mansion shortly after 11 o'clock, the retiring Commander-in-Chief of Illinois' military and naval forces, and the prospective commander whose word will be military law for the next four years, (barring contingency of war or state) reviewed a large contingent of Infantry and Cavalry and a representation of Illinois' Navy Reserve.

Greeted by Small.

Governor Len Small greeted Governor-elect Emmerson within the executive Mansion. Adjutant General Carlos E. Black, who has been an active and effective go-between in the season of preparation, stood with them on the porch of the mansion as the troops passed in review below them on the curbed drive that dissects the executive grounds from Fourth Street on the other.

Affably the old Governor conversed with the new one, figuratively surrendering to him in advance not only the keys of the mansion, and all that appertains hereto, but also the generalship of the khaki-clad militiamen, all of whose faces were turned toward with the sharp command of "Yes right."

Their salutes, obedience to the old chief was likely his last. Leading them was Maj. Gen. Roy L. Keen of Chicago, and Col. Albert L. Culbertson of Delevan. Heading the Naval Reserves of Chicago and Peoria was Capt. Edward A. Evers, Chicago. The 130th Infantry Band from Decatur, setting the strident pace, was first behind the Major General. Then came Danville Infantry under Captain William C. Timm; Champaign Infantry under Capt. Edward A. Fabert; the Springfield Company; Captain Rumbaugh's Company from Danville; the Headquarters Company of the 130th Infantry; Peoria's two companies under Capt. Harold S. Lang and Capt. A. Bojean; Peoria Battalion headquarters with Lieutenant Salzenstein; Capt. Meacham of Decatur and the Regimental Headquarters; and then another Decatur Company with Capt. O. E. Davis commanding and finally the Howitzer Company under Capt. Wesley R. James.

Swinging into the drive after the footmen, came Springfield and Urbana troops of Cavalry, Major Clyde D. Gulick and Capt. R. G. Agher of Urbana among the officers. Peoria's contribution to the Navy was headed by Lieut. William H. McEwen.

Significant of the part they play in Illinois Republican politics, was the proud presence of a parcel of the old Eighth Infantry of colored troops, under Maj. Robert A. Byrd of Springfield.

Autos to Armory.

When the last soldier had passed out of the drive, Adjutant General Black beckoned to the line of automobiles, to carry the executive party, Governor Small, and Governor-elect Emmerson and Adjutant General Black occupied the first; and Mrs. A. E. Ingles, the Governor's daughter, who has been mistress of the mansion since her mother's death, and Mrs. Emmerson occupied the second. Senators and Representatives of the inaugural committee occupied the cars that came after.

Half an hour transpired before the procession cleared the mansion grounds. About the entrances and the streets through which the procession moved was a gathering of Illinoisans, disappointed in their efforts to obtain seats in the arsenal, and an outpouring of Springfield residents.

Unreserved sections of the great auditorium were filled shortly after the doors were opened at 10 o'clock. Entrance was through doors at which sentries with bayoneted rifles stood guard. Ticket crashers crashed no gate, but added to the steadily growing crowds standing in the snow outside.

No Flashlights Allowed.

Early arrivals indicated a democratic gathering. There were few formally dressed.

Because of an accident at a previous inaugural in which windows of the arsenal were blown out, no flashlight pictures of the scene will be allowed until after 3 p. m. Five movie cameramen were disappointed and although they tried to run their machines expressed little hope of getting good pictures in the poor light.

Vendors of souvenirs stood without the doors, their chief stock in trade consisting of pictures of the Governor-elect.

NEW OFFICERS GIVEN OATHS AT CAPITAL

"Fairest of the Fair," Sousa's march. Following them, while the orchestra played "Jurists March," were Chief Justice Frederick De Young and Justice Stone of Peoria and Duncan of Marion.

At 12:10 o'clock, Speaker Shanahan ordered that state officers be admitted, with these words to the Sergeant-at-Arms: "Admit the Honorable, the Governor, and the Governor-elect," and calling the titles of the other state officers.

Cheered by Crowd.

Down the broad aisles between thousands of cheering Illinoisans, the state officers marched, with Adjutant General Carlos E. Black making way. Side by side, Governor Len Small and Governor-elect Louis L. Emmerson walked slowly down the aisle—nearly a block in length—and mounted the steps of the rostrum together. Other state officers followed.

A prayer for "high ideals, tender hearts, and broad sympathies," was offered by the Rev. John Gordon, pastor of the Second Congregational Church of Rockford. "May be all awake to a fresh sense of our responsibilities," he prayed.

The doors were closed at 12:18 o'clock, and Speaker Shanahan again took the floor, preparing for the formal ceremonies.

"We live in a country," he told the officers-elect and retiring officers, "presided over by a representative democratic government. The Constitution of the United States and of Illinois make provisions for an oath of office."

"Men from every walk of life become candidates for office and are elevated, then, when their terms expire, retire to private life. Today we witness men going out and men coming in."

"To those retiring, on behalf of the General Assembly, I extend the warmest esteem, and hope the coming years will bring you happiness."

All Given Oaths.

Then turning to Oscar E. Carlstrom, he said, "are you ready to take the oath?" "I am," was the reply.

Mr. Carlstrom, after taking the oath, said he was "deeply grateful in my heart for the confidence placed in me, and pledge to the new Governor and state officers all cooperation in my power."

OLD MAPLE
Days that were luminous;
It treasures only
The gifts that were golden;
Its memory is cloth-of-gold
In which no dress lingers.

It dreams of amber honey
In a glare of sunlight;
Of satiny pearls slow drooping
Under the scented grasses,
Of ripe yellow corn
And gay lacquered pumpkins,
Of growing stacks and stubble-fields
And glinting wings;
It mirrors the aureate dawns,
The golden gates of sunset,
The pale flame of spring,
The consuming blaze of autumn,
It reflects the gleam of candles,
And of far beckoning stars,
The glory of the sun,
The lesser glory of the moon.

Old maple wood remembers
All things that were golden;
These only it cherishes
Through the long years;
I need you and listen:
It's dreams are cloth-of-gold!

Fifteenth Birthday Happily Remembered

Fifteen girl friends of Helen Chapman gathered at her home, 421 East McKenney street, Saturday evening, to assist her in celebrating her fifteenth birthday anniversary. Bridge was one of the amusements and Myra Alice Warner was awarded the favor for high score and Virginia Nelson was awarded the second favor. Afterward delicious refreshments were served at gaily decorated tables, where much merriment was derived from the numerous intriguing articles found in the tempting birthday cake. The entire evening was one of much pleasure to everyone present and at a late hour the guests departed wishing the young hostess many such happy birthdays.

ELKS SCRAMBLE SUPPER AND DANCE THURSDAY EVENING
There will be a scramble supper at 6:30 Thursday evening at the Elks club with a dance following for Elks and their families.

All those who have not been notified and who intend to attend will please communicate with Mrs. Harry Stephan, chairman of the committee, as soon as possible. The complete list of the members is not available owing to the illness of William Nixon, Secretary, hence communication with Mrs. Stephan is necessary. A good attendance is desired.

W. H. M. S. OF BETHEL CHURCH TO MEET THURSDAY

The W. H. M. S. of Bethel United Evangelical church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. S. B. Quincer, 516 E. Morgan street. C. A. Patton, a missionary of Peru, S. A., will give a talk. Members and friends are invited to be present.

KINGDOM-MT. UNION AID SOCIETY

The Kingdom-Mt. Union Aid Society will hold an all day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Arthur Hoban, northeast of town. A picnic dinner will be served at noon.

ENTERTAINED WITH STAG PARTY SATURDAY

E. D. Alexander was host Saturday evening to a company of friends at a delightful stag party at his home, 403 E. Fellows street.

LADIES AUXILIARY TO MEET TUESDAY EVENING

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. E. A. Sickels, 623 E. Fellows street, Tuesday evening.

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY
Breakfast—Grape fruit juice, cereal, cream, crisp bacon, soft eggs, reheated rolls, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Savory scalloped oysters, creamed carrots, butterscotch cookies, lemonade.

Dinner—Stuffed pork chops, spinach with egg sauce, apple and celery salad, snow pudding, milk, coffee.

Savory Scalloped Oysters

One quart oysters, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 cups diced celery, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 fine cracker crumbs, buttered crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter.

Drain oysters from liquor and pat dry between towels. Beat eggs slightly with salt, pepper, paprika, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Butter a casserole well and sprinkle with a thin layer of fine cracker crumbs. Dip each oyster into egg mixture then into cracker crumbs and place in prepared casserole. Continue to do this until a smooth even layer is made in casserole. Over this sprinkle a layer of celery and parsley. Continue layer for layer of oysters and vegetables until all is used. Pour over remaining egg mixture combined with oyster liquor. Cover with a half-inch layer of buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a hot oven. Serve at once from casserole.

Club Afforded Treat By Prof. Frazer

(Contributed by Dixon Club Correspondent.)

The Dixon Woman's club, members and guests, were more than pleased with the splendid program which the music department of the club, with Mrs. Rorick as chairman, had arranged for the Saturday meeting.

Mr. J. B. Frazer, Principal of the North Side High school, gave his interpretation of the "Merchant of Venice," giving to the listeners a vivid picture of the contrasting characters in the play, and also a distinct picture of the type of plays written and the stage settings for such plays. His enthusiastic audience of one hundred guests and members were delighted with this unusual presentation.

The concert given by three of Dixon's well known artists was exceptionally worthy of praise. Mr. West-gore certainly proved his ability as a concert player. His quality of tone and the interpretation of the selection went to prove as an evidence his ability as a violin artist. Mr. Coleman, cellist, proved to be equally talented with his instrument. Miss Horner also deserves marked praise for her excellent piano accompaniment. The Woman's Club hopes to have this splendid opportunity of hearing these talented artists again.

Dainty refreshments were served from a table made lovely with roses and candles during the social hour.

Mrs. Stanfield Was Hostess on Saturday

Mrs. S. C. Stanfield, 110 Dement avenue, was hostess Friday afternoon to a group of eight guests whom she delightfully entertained in honor of her friend, Mrs. William Albright who was on that day celebrating her birthday.

Bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon.

After bridge a dainty luncheon was served, the table being gay with a profusion of lovely spring flowers in the colors of the other charming decorations, lavender and yellow. A tempting birthday cake with light-colored tapers was a feature of the luncheon which called forth the congratulations and best wishes from those present to the guest of honor. It proved a most enjoyable afternoon to everyone present.

ENTERTAINED AT DINNER SUNDAY

Miss Thelma Beckingham, 507 Depot entertained her girl chum, Miss Nellie Scott, 408 Central Place, at dinner Sunday, a very pleasant day being spent.

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALFENE JUDG

Pretty Ruth McConnell, heiress in the news, who was pursued in a plane when she sought to run away from home on an overland train, collapsed in nervous hysteria after a day with reporters who insisted on knowing why she did it.

Whatever the reason and whatever the grief, there should be some comfort in the fact of being sufficiently desirable to be thus expensively pursued.

For marriage isn't the easily achieved thing for today's girl that it was for yesterday's, and many a maiden would be delighted at being even mildly wanted in that institution, let alone wanted so expensively and with such difficulty.

THE GOVERNOR'S LADY

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the new governor of New York, has always been very much a person in her own name and not just "the wife of Franklin D. Roosevelt." She has been teacher, editor, social worker, speaker, factory manager, clubwoman, and state committee-woman. But now that her husband becomes governor she is resigning that last job, explaining that it is not wise for the wife of the governor to hold any such political connection.

Thus do even the most "modern" subordinate themselves to the husband's job when it becomes necessary.

"FOOL WOMAN TRICK"

A 20-year-old girl of Elyria, O., cranked her car while in gear on an incline and paid with her life. Again we'll hear the comment, "Just like a woman driver." But figures probably prove that just as many men have been killed or maimed in this same way as women, just as they prove that about as many traffic regulations are broken by men as women. They'll have to get a new song and dance on this subject.

People act as individuals and not as members of one sex except as that sex has prohibited them from certain valuable experiences. Woman's traditional timidity, for instance, and her too-personal a cosmos, are products of her woman heritage which, has kept her from the public market place and in her own home until just about the present.

PRINCESS MARTHA TO WED PRINCE OLAF

Stockholm, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The engagement of Princess Martha of Sweden to Crown Prince Olaf of Norway was officially announced today. Princess Martha, who was born March 28, 1901, is the daughter of Prince Carl, brother of King Gustaf of Sweden. The Crown Prince was born on July 2, 1903.

Princess Martha is a sister of Princess Astrid wife of the Belgian Crown Prince. The Princess is generally considered one of the most beautiful of European Princesses. Tall and slender, with dark hair and a pale complexion, she is of a retiring disposition and a great lover of music.

Crown Prince Olaf is the son of King Hackson and Queen Maude, who is a sister of King George of England.

CUBAN WOMEN GAIN IN SUFFRAGE DRIVE

Havana.—(AP)—Women of Matanzas, Cuba, have joined in an equal rights-for-women movement and have requested the Havana center of the Allanza Nacional Feminista (National Feminist Alliance) for membership in the organization, which is now carrying on a concerted fight for the vote in 1929.

Reports reaching here from Matanzas say women of that city are headed by wives of high politicians and society leaders and that virtually all prominent women are aligned in the movement designed to carry through the votes-for-women fight here in Havana.

Announcements at women's headquarters in Havana are that the entire island is being organized for a drive. It is also said that no time will be lost in bringing about the signing of the equal suffrage measure introduced into the Cuban Constitution last year and which remains only to be signed by the president.

CHILD CENTER PLANS NURSEMAID TRAINING

New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—A course for training nursemaids has been arranged by the Children's Community center administration here. It will be based on experience obtained in the care of orphans and children committed to its care.

Moved out of the city proper a few years ago, the asylum was remodeled into a community center. Increase in infant population has made it difficult to maintain a trained staff of maids. The plan marks a departure in child welfare work, it is said by those conversant with that phase of philanthropy.

Dance Saturday Evening Happy Affair

Despite the wintry weather there was a good attendance at the dance given for the officers, members of their staff, employees and friends of the Dixon State Hospital at the new amusement hall at the grounds Saturday evening. The hall is an ideal place in which to dance. The floor was in good condition and the music from the orchestra from town was excellent. All in attendance enjoyed a very happy evening. Dainty refreshments were served.

Wedding Saturday Evening in Dixon

On Saturday evening about 6:30 o'clock at the parsonage to the Immanuel Lutheran church, Jesse H. McConaughay of Dixon and Miss Arlene Stephenson of West Franklin, Ill., were united in marriage. Rev. A. G. Suechting, pastor, using the single ring ceremony. Ralph Gurley and his wife, Opal Gurley, attended the couple. The bride was beautifully attired in blue and her attendant in tan. The many friends of the young couple extend best wishes to them. The bridegroom is an attendant at the Dixon State Hospital.

PRairieville P. T. A. TO MEET THURSDAY EVENING

The Prairieville P. T. A. will hold its first meeting of the year Thursday evening.

The feature of the evening will be a play, "Joe Guess Runs a Boarding House," presented by the Dairy department of Purina Mills. This little play is put on by five characters, in four scenes. Its theme is lower cost of production and more profit in the dairy business, which ultimately means better homes, better churches, better schools and more prosperous communities.

Pupils of the Prairieville school will provide music preceding and following the play, while the audience will be entertained between scenes with music by the Claude Sweetzer family. This should be an evening of entertainment and profit for all who attend.

Chicago Wins Case in Supreme Court

Washington, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Chicago won a victory today in its controversy with other Great Lakes states over the diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

The court sustained as valid the permit issued by the Secretary of War which the Chicago Sanitary District was withdrawing the water.

Under the decision, which was delivered by Chief Justice Taft, Chicago will be permitted to continue the withdrawal under the terms permitting completion of other arrangements from sewage disposal.

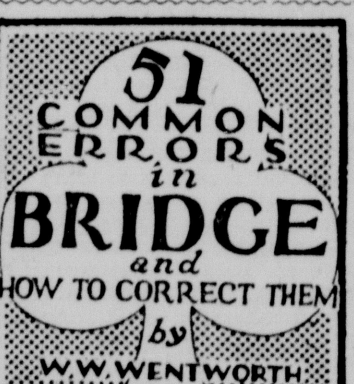

LA BELLE KNIGHTSHIP WON CHAMPIONSHIP

Chicago, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. H. S. Bell, Danville, Ill., today had the champion of champions and the best cat displayed at the Beresford cat club show.

Her La Belle Knight in Blue Boots won the title of champion of champions at the club's show which closed last night.

West—
Leads ♠ K

South (Declarer)—
♠ A K Q 6 2
♥ A 7 5
♣ 9 5 3

The Bidding: South opens with one spade and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West lead king of hearts. How should declarer plan to play?

The Error: Declarer captures the first trick with ace of hearts and then draws opponents' trumps by playing ace, king and queen of spades in that order. After that declarer makes ace of diamonds, king of diamonds and ace of clubs and then gives opponents the lead by playing 8 of clubs on the next round. Opponents proceed to win two heart tricks and two club tricks. Declarer captures the remaining tricks but sacrifices game and excellent opportunity to score a grand slam.

The Correct Method: Declarer sees that game is virtually assured and decides to try for a grand slam after capturing the first trick with the ace of hearts. Declarer plays 5 of hearts which is ruffed in dummy. After that 3 of spades is played and overtaken in the closed hand with ace of spades. Now 7 of hearts is placed and ruffed in dummy. Ace of diamonds and king of diamonds win two tricks after which 7 of diamonds is played and trumped by declarer. Trumps are now drawn and a small club is led to ace of clubs in dummy after which dummy's remaining diamonds win tricks, the losing clubs being discarded on them. Barring a freak distribution of the cards this method of playing scores a grand slam.

The Principle: When short-suited in dummy, seek to convert losers into winning tricks by utilizing dummy's small trumps.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—NEWSPY LETTERS

A woman, famous for her interesting letters, keeps a series of large manila envelopes in her desk, each having the name of a correspondent.

Every time she sees an item that would interest one of them, she clips it and sticks it into his or her envelope until her next letter.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

In an age when so many folks forget anniversaries, an easy way to give your friends pleasure is to take a new calendar, go through it with your book of birthdays and write the name of your various friends and relatives over their birth dates. A card that reaches one on that day of days never fails to please.

GIFT CHEST

If the Christmas rush has worn you out, why not try a gift chest, beginning now? Whenever you see a real bargain that is attractive, purchase it and store it away. Weddings, birthdays, showers and Christmas all lose their terror for the woman who keeps her gift box stocked.

NOVEL GARNISH

A pretty and a different garnish for lamb chops or fried chicken is made by slicing small oranges in very thin whole slices and placing an even thinner slice of pimento top of them.

COFFEE PUDDING

Bread pudding, flavored with coffee, makes a delightful change. Use coffee instead of milk to moisten it. Serve with thin cream, custard or hard sauce.

HONEY MUFFINS

If you use two or three tablespoons of honey instead of sugar when making muffins the next time, your family will exclaim over the "new taste."

GELATINE SALAD

In making a fruit salad for company, using a gelatine base stretches the fruit and other ingredients immeasurably. It is an excellent dish for Sunday night suppers.

CONVENIENT BRUSH

One of the long handled brushes, similar to those for cleaning milk bottles, proves indispensable in brushing the crumbs from the electric toaster.

NIGHTLY BRUSHING

Business coats and frocks retain their pristine freshness much more easily if their wearers brush them carefully each night, put them on hangers and place where a current of air passes through them.

SOFT HANDS

A cake of good soap, or nail brush, a small bottle of hand lotion and a slice of lemon should occupy a small shelf at every sink. If housewives use them all when finished with the dishes or cleaning the house, they can easily preserve their hands' beauty.

PLAY BROOM

Little girls and little boys will find it fun to brush the snow off their shoes before coming into the house if you keep one of the little toy brooms with a cheery red handle hanging at the entrance for them to use.

PRUNE SANDWICHES

Children love prune sandwiches. Rub well-cooked prunes through sieve, add so chopped nuts and a few drops of lemon juice. Spread on whole wheat bread.

Were Married in Dixon on Saturday

Saturday evening Carl F. Jung of Beloit, Wis., and Miss Clara Finkle, of Polo, Ill., were united in holy wedlock at the parsonage of the Grace Evangelical church by the Rev. Frank Brandteller. The best wishes of their many friends will follow them.

THURSDAY READING CIRCLE TO MEET

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

© 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

Do you ever have a party for the children?

If you don't, why not?

Probably I can answer that. It is expensive, it means a lot of trouble and you are too busy. Am I right?

Do you remember Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch who entertained the unexpected guest by the simple expedient of watering the potato soup?

It struck me as the very essence of social grace and poise. Was Mrs. Wiggs rattled or embarrassed? Not she. She made up in welcome and hospitality what she lacked in refreshments. And everybody was happy.

There is something about a party that puts a bit of magic into life. It doesn't matter whether you serve potato soup or pink cakes and ice cream. Children are not critical and in their undemonstrative, silent little way they are keenly appreciative of hospitality.

I go into stores and see the adorable little favors and tricky things for decorating the tables for parties and wish with all my heart that I had little children to give parties for again. But care should be taken not to make the party too elaborate.

We shouldn't wait until we are "house-perfect" to entertain friends either young or old. If we do life will fly by and we'll discover sometime that we have missed something.

Few houses are ever house-perfect. We're too fussy about clean curtains and new rugs.

Let your children become accustomed to being hosts.

Nothing you do could be better for them. To learn to be alert for the comfort of their guests, to be gentlemen and ladies in their own house—what could be finer.

We set great store by that word "poise" these days. Childhood is the time to learn it and right at home, too. The psychological value of a party is great.

SAVING HANDS

If you put a little vinegar in the rinse water on wash day, it will prevent your hands from becoming rough and chapped.

AIRING MATTRESSES

Air your mattresses and pillows on windy days. Brush them carefully, at least once a fortnight and thoroughly air in the sun.

DEAR FRIENDS:—

Along with Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, we're moving! And like the Hoovers, we're moving into bigger and better quarters.

We're even moving for the same reason they are—because our big business demands it.

You probably know about it — we're moving into the Dixon Cleaners, the largest and most modern plant in Dixon.

HYPOCRISY RAMPANT.

It is quite possible that future generations will look back on the present period as the great age of national hypocrisy. Sham and pretense have become two of our greatest national characteristics during the decade since the World War ended. No one can tell how long it will be before we manage to reduce them to their normal proportions; certainly both have some striking manifestations nowadays.

A day or so ago the Washington correspondents sent out some rather excited stories, predicting that President-elect Hoover might take the unprecedented step of demanding that all government officials, from high to low, comply with the national prohibition law.

"This," wrote one correspondent gravely, "is something new. Advocacy of some such executive pronouncement has been occasionally voiced in Congress by two or three members known as radical dries, but it has never gone further than that."

Something new, indeed—it surely is. Yet why, if we are not wholly given over to hypocrisy and humbuggery, should there be anything either new or startling in the spectacle of the president of the nation insisting that government officials shall observe the nation's organic law?

Nothing could be possibly more illuminating. Let yourself ponder, just for a moment, on the extent of the sham which the pending issuance of such a request implies.

We have a "dry" government. Neither the present Congress nor the one that will succeed it will modify the prohibition law to the slightest extent. In addition there are hundreds upon hundreds of appointive officials, each observe and protect the law, many of them charged directly with enforcing the prohibition law itself. Yet for a president to demand that all of these individuals honor the law themselves is considered a radical, surprising, breathtaking step.

Could our hypocrisy go further?
It is an extremely unhealthy situation into which we have drifted. We have come perilously close to accepting the creed of the shyster lawyer, that whatever you can get away with is all right. No problem that faces us is of greater importance than this.

No government, and least of all a democracy, can endure without a high standard of integrity among its officials. Unless we can rid ourselves of our growing indifference to sham, we are due for a rather rocky time of it a little later. Regardless of your attitude toward the prohibition law itself, you must agree that this hypocrisy is a force that is menacing the very foundation of our government.

40,000 MILLIONAIRES.

If you have been having any doubts as to the real, enduring achievements of our country during the last dozen years, you may lay them to rest forever now. The country has nearly 40,000 millionaires!

This is on the word of Carl Snyder of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who recently addressed the American Statistical Association in Chicago.

In 1914, says Mr. Snyder, America had approximately 7,000 millionaires. The number has grown to more than five times its original size since then, and is still going up. Much of the increase is attributable to the war; much more to the recent stock market boom.

We may have our problems. Some industries may be stagnant. Textile workers may be underpaid, coal miners may be starving, the power trust may be propagandizing our schools and the farmers may be in despair—but we have 40,000 millionaires, anyway. Doesn't that encourage you?

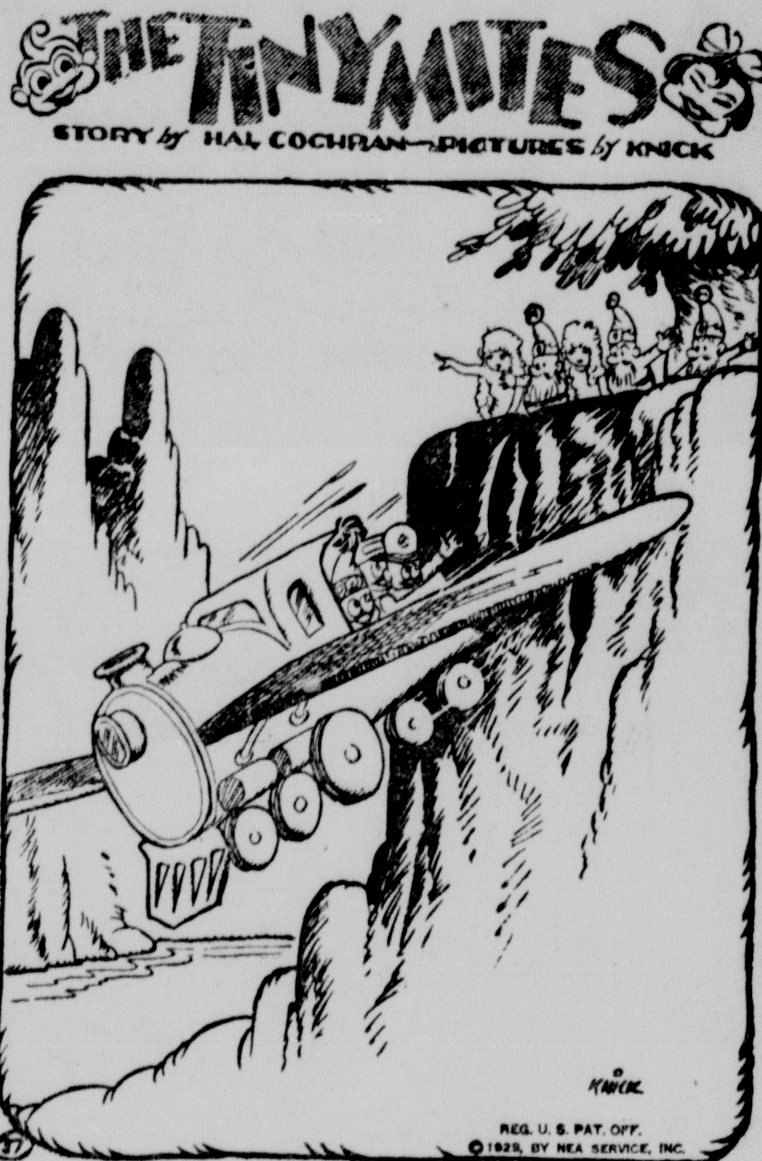

A Chinese competing in the talk marathon in Chicago gave up after 55 hours of chin wagging. To anyone who ever has tried to get laundry from a Chinaman without a ticket, this will be a trifle hard to understand.

Graceful curves for the ladies are returning to fashion. Have you noticed how much plumper the automobile lines are?

According to a new school of thought, little Willie is merely expressing his personality when he smears jam on the wall. It is then time for the parent to express a little personality, too, perhaps by tapping the hair brush on the rear of William's trousers.

The Chicago man who went on a diet of garlic to keep away the flu probably was trying to achieve 100 per cent isolation.

Now that airplanes are being sold on the installment basis, collectors will have to learn to fly.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

At last the washing all was done, fagged I feel. I'll simply have to take a nap. He flopped down by a tree. The others shortly flopped down too. Said Carpy, "This is hanging on the line, and soon they'll sure be looking fine. I think I'll hop to mine now, if no one seems to mind."

"Me too," cried Clowzy. "Mine are dry. And, after this we ought to try to take care of our clothing. No more riding on the chutes. And so the Tinymites got dressed and every little dwarf confessed that they all looked real neat, way from their hats down to their boots."

A fairy who looked very sweet exclaimed, "I've brought you food to eat. I guess you all are hungry. Here are sandwiches galore. Now, take your time and help yourselves. There's more food hidden on my shelves and if the sandwiches run short, I'll run and get some more."

The dwarfs and Tines ate the meal. Then Clowzy said, "How

Fred High Says—

Of the nearly 30,000 banks in the United States, about 8,000 maintain or manage Savings Clubs. The Christmas Savings Clubs alone turned over to their members during December over $500,000,000.

Where did this $500,000,000 go?

It is estimated that $213,000,000 went to stores to pay for Christmas gifts; that $165,000,000 went into some form of permanent investment, or into thrift and savings accounts; that $72,000,000 went into year-end payments, including installment payments; $30,000,000 into insurance premiums; $29,000,000 into interest and reduction of mortgages; $25,000,000 into taxes; $11,000,000 into education and travel; and $5,000,000 for charity.

How much more the banks would profit and how much more the people would benefit, if, in addition to this effort to get people to join the Savings Clubs, the banks would also set about teaching people how to invest their surplus earnings, giving unbiased advice regarding investments and especially teaching the young people the laws that govern sound investment.

In that wonderful book by Henry Ford, "My Life Work," Mr. Ford says: "Most men who are laborious in saving a few dollars, would do better to invest those few dollars, first in themselves and then in some useful work. Eventually they would have more to save."

That there is a tremendous need of knowing how to invest earnings is seen on every hand. If the wage earners knew better how to invest their money, there would be less money wasted in the wild craze to keep up with the Joneses by the would-be Joneses, with the result that there would be more Joneses and fewer would-be Joneses of every kind.

If investors had more information, there would be less wild buying of stocks in the stock market and less loss than there is. It is estimated that there was a drop of $6,000,000,000 in the value of stocks in the three days when the bottom dropped out of the stock market on December 6, 7 and 8. For each one to whom this drop meant a profit there were hundreds to whom it meant grief and in many instances it meant a loss of the investor's entire savings.

Manipulating money rates will benefit the investing public only temporarily. Passing more stringent and drastic laws will not make stock market investing more safe for the uninformed. A constant campaign of education is needed to bring about a sane method of procedure on the part of the stock investor.

The people need to be taught the laws of sound investment. People who, in the past, have been conservative investors in sound securities, are now going about trying to find something that will yield them the 6 1/2% to 7% interest, they could get during and after the war. The days of high yield on sound investments are gone for a long time, at least from the present time over 5.5 to 5.75% shows weakness in security.

Today securities of the first class yield about as follows:

Railroads, 4.40%.
Utilities, 4.50%.
Industrials, 4.80%.
Foreign Bonds, 5.40%.
Railroad and utility bonds that yield over 6%, industrial bonds that yield over 6 1/2%, and foreign bonds that yield over 6 1/2% are highly speculative.

It ought to be easy to convince the investing public that it is foolish to risk 100% of principal for an additional 1% or even an additional 2% of interest.

The very best financial authorities are now predicting that during the next few years the wise and well-informed investor will be able to make larger profits than he has made during the past few years.

BEWARE THE COUGHS THAT FOLLOW FLU!

They May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion may help you avoid flu, but is not sold as a flu remedy. If you have fever, or think you may have the flu, see your doctor immediately. (adv.)

Distressing Noises in Head

BY C. F. YERGER, M. D.
Chicago, Illinois

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Head noise, or in the terminology of the physician tinnitus aurium, is but a symptom of many diseased conditions of the ear and body. It is a term employed to designate subjective sounds heard in the ears or head. It is one of the most pronounced and frequent subjective symptoms, and may be very distressing.

The sounds complained of by the patient may be either musical or noisy; high low or intermediate in pitch, continuous or intermittent, pulsating or synchronous with the heart beat, and from mild to very loud. Tinnitus aurium may assume any variety of noise or tones, which may vary in intensity and character even in the same individual. It is commonly associated and appears simultaneously with disturbances of hearing. In the great majority of cases, tinnitus is localized in the ear, but not infrequently it is referred to some other part of the head.

While it is true that tinnitus can occur independent of ear disease, the ear should, in every case, first be examined carefully and thoroughly in order to exclude it as a cause, because ear disease is the most common cause of tinnitus. Bezold found tinnitus in 2.6 per cent of all ear patients. Tinnitus is frequently associated with deafness. The intensity of the tinnitus may increase with increase in deafness, or it may diminish or cease completely, while in other cases it may increase after hearing has been lost.

The intensity of the tinnitus is most marked in chronic adhesive processes of the middle ear and the formation of spongy bone in the capsule of the labyrinth of the ear. Tinnitus associated with chronic suppurative disease of the middle ear is not so marked as the former. Whether in tinnitus aurium there is a close relationship between the character of the subjective noise and its underlying cause is very doubtful, but from our clinical knowledge of diseases of the inner ear and auditory nerve, we would expect involvement here to show a high pitched whistle-like sound.

There is a form of subjective noises that must be regarded as a neurosis. It is designated as nervous tinnitus, but this diagnosis should never be made until all other causes of tinnitus have been excluded. The many causes that may produce tinnitus are legion. When due to general disease, it is liable to be bilateral. When due to some local affecting one ear, it is generally unilateral. Some of the systemic diseases causing tinnitus are hypertension or high blood pressure, cardio-vascular-renal disease, anemia, syphilis, mumps, neurasthenia, quinine, salicylates, alcohol and tobacco intoxications. The local diseases producing tinnitus affect the condition and perception apparatus of the ear. Disease of the ear is the cause of over 95 per cent of tinnitus. Some of the most causes being impacted wax in the external auditory canal, catarrh of the eustachian tube with obstruction, acute and chronic, catarrh or purulent middle-ear disease, and diseases of the external ear of labyrinth. Tinnitus is one of the most frequent symptoms of irritation of the labyrinth. The outlook for relief or a complete cure of this disagreeable symptom depends upon its causation, its duration and its severity. If we can remove the cause of this symptom, we can remove the symptoms, hence the most important thing is to find the cause and to do this as early as possible and not let the condition become chronic. Los Angeles County has greater dairy production than any other county in California.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

WOLVERINES AND BOILER-MAKERS ARE OUT IN LEAD

Setting Dizzy Pace for Big Ten Basket Ball Outfits

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Chicago, Jan. 14—(AP)—Michigan and Purdue were out in front, neck and neck, as the dizzy race for the Big Ten basketball championship passed the quarter pole today.

Rushing forward with unexpected speed, the two teams have passed their rivals with three straight victories. Neither has been defeated. Wisconsin and Ohio State, which have won two and lost one game each, were the only entries even close to them.

Coach Veenker's Wolverines, who were rated by pre-season second guessers as a fifth place team, had the inside rail in the race, however.

Toppling over Wisconsin and Iowa on their home floors last week, the Wolverines have a far smoother course left than have the Boiler-makers. Michigan does not have to meet Purdue or Indiana while Wisconsin and Iowa now have to invade Michigan.

Won Uphill Game
Michigan fought an uphill battle to defeat Iowa at Iowa City Saturday night, 36 to 25.

Purdue swamped Northwestern, 45 to 30; Wisconsin easily defeated Chicago, 33 to 21; Ohio State showed surprising teamwork in defeating Illinois, 27 to 22; while Indiana edged out Minnesota, 37 to 36, in a wild overtime game at Minneapolis.

The five games tonight bring into action Northwestern at Ohio State, Chicago at Purdue, Indiana at Wisconsin, Minnesota at Iowa and Illinois at Michigan. Saturday night, eight teams get into action—Iowa at Northwestern, Chicago at Illinois, Minnesota at Wisconsin, and Purdue at Indiana.

Purdue Leads Scorers
"Stretch" Murphy and his Purdue mates are out in front with a corner on scoring honors in the Big Ten race. Murphy leads in individual scoring with 35 points, while Purdue is ahead in team scoring with 117.

Basing roughness of play on personal fouls called, Ohio State so far is the roughest team in the race, 39 personals being called against it in three games. Purdue leads in field goals with 44 and in free throws with 29.

Team scoring, showing field goals, free throws, total, personal fouls and opponents totals:

	FG.	FT.	Tot.	PF.	Op.
Purdue	23	117	27	80
Michigan	41	17	90	36	68

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

FORESTS FIGHTS

It is well known that the male of deer, moose, elk, and other antlered animals stage spectacular fights during the mating season in the Fall, but these bouts are usually regarded as fencing jousts, with a good deal of stamping and snorting and clashing of antlers, out with only an academic interest in inflicting injury. However, these fights are actually struggles to the death, and are entered into with that understanding. Those in which both contestants escape alive are failures for one reason or another. The fact is attested to in an account of two such fights which took place among the deer of the Kaibab forests in Arizona.

Two rangers came upon two deer whose antlers were securely locked and who were lying on the ground panting from exhaustion. The ranger proceeded to try to separate them. After trying to break the interlocking parts of the antlers with rocks, the ranger finally shot through one antler at a critical point, but even this failed to weaken it sufficiently. Then with a good deal of care, he set to work methodically and proceeded to break the antlers with large rocks realizing that both animals would perish unless freed. The deer by this time were lying with closed eyes, exhausted to prostration. Finally he succeeded in freeing the antlers, and he ran back in order to escape what consequences might come. One of the deer, stronger than the other, managed to struggle weakly to his feet. But he did not turn and walk thankfully away. With the remnants of his strength—and the remnants of his antlers—he hooked his adversary fiercely in the body, trampled on him with his sharp hoofs, then, walked away, leaving him dying.

In another instance a ranger found two deer dead, one of them having thrust his antlers into the side of the other, only to have them become firmly locked in his ribs. The one deer had died of the wound and the other of starvation.

These and other observations show conclusively that when battle takes place during the mating season, they are duels to death, and all participants recognize them as such. On a still night the clash of the horns can be heard for a long distance through the forest, and observations of scenes of fights show that the ground is torn up and in some cases even small trees are uprooted. Only when the defeated deer is a faster runner than his opponent, do both survive the fight.

ing battle as the west ever has seen. It was a repetition of his victory in Los Angeles over a year ago, and was registered in even more sensational fashion. He came out first in a field of many star golfers.

Smith came from behind at his never-faltering pace to wipe out a seven-stroke lead that Tommy Armour of Washington, D. C., another doughty Scot, had accumulated in two phenomenal rounds. The first place winner received $3,500. When Smith rammed his final putt down the cup on the 18th green of the Riviera course as darkness fell, he had completed four rounds with cards of 71-71-70-73—285.

HE CHANGED HIS MIND

George Owen, son-in-law of a Boston banker and one of the few athletes who ever won nine varsity sport letters at Harvard, said he was sick of athletics when he graduated.

Professional baseball, professional hockey and professional football made flattering offers for his services. He was not only a star in each line but the promoters knew the advertising value of a great Harvard player. So few Harvard men go in for that sort of thing.

Owen said he despised football as a game, that he hated baseball as a sport, that he was tired of hockey and that the whole idea of professional athletics was nauseating to him. He didn't want to talk about it.

He joined an amateur hockey team in Boston and then he broke over a little more by letting out a blast about the football coaching system at Harvard last fall and now he has become a professional hockey player with the Boston Bruins.

THEY FIRE GOOD ONES, TOO
Major P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point, respectfully calls attention to the names of some of the cadets on the casualty list of the first term examinations.

On the list of cadets who didn't make the grades and had to leave were J. K. McKy, A. N. Blodeau, J. F. Jansa, L. J. Rooney and W. O. Salter.

The five young men mentioned happened to be the star members of the piebe football team who came to the academy from other institutions with great football reputations.

Rooney, a backfield star, came from St. Mary's College and according to Major Fleming he was the one responsible for the defeat of Stanford. McKy was a fullback who stood 6 feet 3 1/2 inches, weighed 215 pounds and came from Hill Military Academy.

WELL! WELL! WELL!

"For disclosing stable secrets," a London paper discloses, "Mr. Tom Leader, the well known race horse trainer of Wroughton House, Newmarket, has summarily dismissed one of his lads."

"Mr. Leader, who won the Grand National with Spring less than two years ago, explained his action at Sandown yesterday."

"He had reason to suspect that a disloyal employee was circulating racing people offering to give them information about horses trained in the stable and moreover believed that the culprit had been at work for some time."

"The trainer therefore set a trap and was able to secure possession of a letter intended for the lad, who, as events proved, was also a surreptitious tipster. As an example to the entire stable the lad was turned out of the stable."

"This action of Mr. Leader's follows closely on the dismissal of the jockey Carroll by his employer, Mr. Stanley Wootton, and proves once again that race horse trainers find it difficult to keep their own secrets."

SENATORS FACE COMING SEASON WITH HIGH HOPES

Walter Johnson is Expected to Have Good Season

BY PAUL N. SEXTON
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—If sentiment can win baseball games, the Washington Senators will start the 1928 playing season with a big lead over the other American League entries.

This is because in selecting Walter Johnson to replace Bucky Harris, who goes to Detroit, Clark Griffith has touched a soft spot in the hearts of thousands of Capital fans.

The return of the "Big Train," for twenty years the hurling ace of the Senators, after a brief absence as manager of the Newark club, has undoubtedly bolstered the morale of the Griffith cast.

Aside from this, however, the Senators have other reasons for their pre-season confidence, chief of which is the promise of a revamped infield, a more effective outer defense and some promising new pitching material from the minors.

The acquisition of Buddy Meyer, brought back from Boston in a deal that cost Griffith five players, is expected to brace the inner wall effectively. Johnson believes that with Meyer at third, Ossie Bluege can be switched to short where he played when he first entered the big show.

The perennial Joe Judge will again decorate first base, and Johnson has the choice of at least three newcomers to plug the gap at second left by Harris' departure. They are Joe Cronin, Kansas City graduate; John Stewart, recalled from Birmingham; and Jack Hays, who has seen service here before.

Trio Put in Charge of New York Garden

New York, Jan. 14—(AP)—For the next two or three months at least, the destinies of Madison Square Garden will be in the hands of a trio that includes William F. Carey, Col. John S. Hammond and Tom McCardle. This has been made clear by Rickard F. Hoyt, chairman of the board of the Garden Corporation.

On the eve of his departure on a cruise of more than a month, Hoyt outlined the situation at the Garden as he and his associates saw it.

The men in charge now are perfectly capable of handling the business," he declared. "Carey, Hammond and McCardle constitute a combination which is satisfactory from every standpoint and regardless of the reports circulated since the death of Mr. Rickard, no change is contemplated in the organization as it is at present constituted. It is only a matter of loyalty that we give the men in control now a chance to direct affairs."

NEWS of the CHURCHES

GRACE EVANGELICAL CHURCH

North Side
E. Fellows St., and No. Ottawa Ave.
Rev. Frank Brandeliner, Pastor.
CHRIST DIED FOR OUR SINS.
Tonight the Young People's Missionary Circle will meet at 7:30. Refreshments will be served by the old officers.

Wednesday at 7:30—Prayer, praise and Bible study hour for every member of the family. The young people meet downstairs.

The study of the Bible is essential. The Bible did not grow out of the "experience" of its writers, as modernists have a penchant for saying. No, its truths were first divinely revealed to them, and that began the experience; then they were equipped to write. "Holy men of old spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

The Biblically inspired writers were not merely illumined; they were divinely chosen and impelled to write the Bible, and the Bible only. No other body of men were ever selected for that specific purpose. Biblical inspiration is unique. Hence, there have been no other men who wrote Bibles such as ours; nor are there any such men now.

You are invited to share the blessings of God with us. A cordial invitation is extended to all.
CHRIST ROSE FOR OUR JUSTIFICATION

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Sacrament" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 13.

The Golden Text was, "Let us keep the feast, not with the old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice, and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth" (1 Corinthians 5:8).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Father, I will that they also, whom thou hast given me, be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory, which thou hast given me: for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world. And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it: that the love wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them." (John 17:24, 26.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Are all who eat bread and drink wine in memory of Jesus willing truly to drink his cup, take his cross, and leave all for the Christ-Principles? If Christ, Truth, has come to us in demonstration, no other commemoration is requisite, for demonstration is Immanuel, or God with us" (pp. 23, 34).

OBITUARY

MRS. ELIZABETH BLACKBURN
(Contributed)

Mrs. Elizabeth Blackburn, daughter of the late Peter and Eliza Phalen was born in New York City, April 15, 1861, and passed away at the home of her son George, 1620 N. Lamont avenue, Chicago, Ill., on January 8, 1919, death being due to pneumonia. She came with her parents when a small child to Dixon where she grew to womanhood. She was united in marriage to Peter J. Blackburn of this city, October 1, 1883. Her husband preceded her in death, September 11, 1910. Three sons, William, Frank and George, all of Chicago are left to mourn her passing. Four grandchildren, Marie, Benedict, James and Loraine, three sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Mary Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Louise Brady, Mrs. Katherine Dillon, William, all of Chicago, Andrew and James of Dixon also survive to mourn her passing.

Mrs. Blackburn has many friends both in Dixon and Chicago who mourn her passing. Funeral services were conducted from her late home to St. Peter's Catholic church where solemn requiem mass was celebrated. Arriving at Dixon, the funeral party went direct to the Jones funeral home where friends viewed the remains. She was laid to rest in Oakwood cemetery beside her husband. Rev. F. Warner, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church conducted the services at the grave.

WALKS WITHOUT ANY PAIN AFTER TAKING GLY-CAS

Trying Years to Rid Self of Rheumatism; Everything Failed Before.

"Although every medicine I had tried in many years of efforts to get back my health failed to help me, I somehow felt that possibly Gly-Cas would be different from all the others and I surely made no mistake," says Mrs. Anna Myers, 117 Wabash Ave., Fremont, Ohio, in praise of this great new herbal remedy.

MRS. ANNA MYERS.

"One after another medicines had failed to reach my case," she continued. "My knee was stiff from rheumatism and I could hardly walk with knife-like pains from my knee to hip. Not only this suffering, but I had to endure dizzy spells, and I suffered terribly from head-aches, could not sleep properly having to take laxatives. As I said, I could not find any medicine that would ever help me before, but regardless of this fact, Gly-Cas has given me complete relief. I walk freely now and without any pain at all because all the awful rheumatism has left me. I am not dizzy anymore, have not had a single headache since I took Gly-Cas, constipation entirely relieved and I sleep well every night without fail. To every sufferer of rheumatism and troubles like mine I advise the use of Gly-Cas. It has simply restored my health."

Gly-Cas is sold in Dixon at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy, Sold Franklin Grove, G. S. Ives; Polo, C. R. Clothier; Ashton, G. R. Charters; Amboy, Aschenbrenner Drug; Compton, W. H. Hills; Rochelle, Barker & Sullivan and by leading druggists in all surrounding towns.—Adv.

Three Noted Money Men on Reparations

Washington, Jan. 14—(AP)—There is a current report that the American delegation to the German war reparations conference to be held in Paris, will include J. Pierpont Morgan, head of J. P. Morgan & Company, international bankers; Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Company; and Thomas Nelson Perkins, Boston lawyer and financier. However, government officials have declared that they did not know who had been named. The reparations commission would make the selections, but the United States would be advised of them before the actual appointments.

Although a tablet on a London tavern states that Samuel Pepys, the famous diarist, was born in a house at that site, there is doubt about it. No one really knows whether he was born in London or in a Huntingdonshire town.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ASHTORETH ASHE, determined little stenographer, has won a proposal of marriage from her wealthy employer, HOLIS HART, is said to be the most eligible bachelor in America.

You can hardly blame Ash-to-reth for being elated. She is a very beautiful girl, but poor as a church mouse, and infinitely removed from the glamour circle in which Holis moves. He is old enough, perhaps, to be her father, but a rather handsome man, and lovable.

He tells Ash-to-reth that he loves her with all his heart, and gives her a little tender name—Orchid. Because, he says, she reminds him of the loveliest flowers that grow. Ash-to-reth loves him, too. At least, she thinks she does. Probably almost any girl would love a handsome multi-millionaire, who made love divinely, and loved the very ground she walked on.

They have been together for a glorious week, in a little house on a mountainous island in the West Indies. The meeting was entirely accidental, but Ash-to-reth—naturally—made the most of it. She was traveling at the time for her health. Hart was taking one of his frequent cruises, and had stopped at the island on his way to South America.

Now they are on their way back to Boston, returning on the cruise ship which Ash-to-reth unexpectedly abandoned at Dominica as soon as she saw Holis.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXIII

THEY sat on the deck at night, and talked about their wedding trip.

"You've never been to Paris?" he asked.

"I've never been anywhere," she told him. "Paris! My goodness. Holis, stenographers don't go to Paris."

He smiled at her fondly.

"It will be very wonderful," he said, "showing you the world, my dear. It would be so too bad to go honeymooning with a girl who'd been everywhere, and seen every thing. It's going to be glorious, taking you to my favorite haunts and shrines. . . I know a little place in the country, where George Sand used to live."

"The country, Holis?" Ash-to-reth interrupted breathlessly. "My dear, you'll never be able to lure me off the rue de la Paix. I've been reading about that place all my life. About how the jewellers' shops blaze like windows of flame. And how you sit in the cafe on the corner, and watch the world stroll by. And the women are the loveliest and the smartest on earth. And every little shop is so cram full of fashion and of elegance, that you're simply dazzled with splendor."

"Baby!" he chided. "The rue de la Paix isn't in it with Fifth avenue. But wait until you see Notre Dame and Sainte Chapelle."

"What's Sainte Chapelle?" she interrupted.

ASHTORETH did not like to appear ignorant.

"Oh, yes," she said. "I remember now reading about Victor Hugo's Notre Dame, so I know something about that too."

Holis smiled indulgently.

"Wait until you see the Madonna of Notre Dame," he said.

"I don't care much for Madonnas," she confessed. "They're so big, and they've such blandly holy expressions. I suppose it's awfully irreverent to have such preferences. But I'd lots rather see Josephine Baker."

Ash-to-reth sputtered wrathfully.

"I hope," she declared, "you told them to go to the devil."

"Well, not exactly," he admitted. "It was Mrs. Dunks, you see, who asked me. But I sort of implied something of the sort. I told them we had another engagement."

She giggled happily. "And we'll sit right beside them," she cried, "all by ourselves!"

"Exactly," he agreed.

"The Simpsons asked this morning if we were engaged," she told him. "I informed them that our relations were an entirely personal matter."

"You did?" he chuckled. "And what do you suppose they're going to say now? You shouldn't talk that way, darling. I shan't have my lily maid defamed. But if she's a foolish little girl, and talks ab-

"That," he told her, "is because you've never seen the Holy Lady of Notre Dame. She's my favorite girl, so you'd better like her. She's a little bit of a thing, Orchid, but she doesn't look particularly holy."

As a matter of fact, she's a young modern mother—and God knows how many centuries old she is. A little slim thing, with tiny features. Holding her baby in a frightened sort of way, and not placid at all, like the other Madonnas. No body knows who fashioned her, nor when. Nor where she came from."

"Well, of course, we'll go and see her," she agreed. "But you'll take me to see Josephine Baker too, won't you, Holis? And I want to go to the Folies, and the Casino and Montmartre. And all the dress makers. And every single blessed cafe in Paris."

She squeezed his hand ecstatically. "Oh, my goodness, dearest! I'm glad you're rich! You don't mind my being glad, do you?"

"Not a bit," he assured her. "Sometimes I'm glad myself."

"Well," she said, "it's certainly wonderful, the things money will do! I'd never have believed people could change like the women on this boat. When I was with Mona, they snubbed me outrageously. Because Mona wasn't anybody. And I wasn't anybody either. And they felt a million times better than either of us."

"But now! My dear, they're simply falling over their feet selves, trying to make up, if I'm good enough for you, I'm good enough for them. The old hypocrites! Why, Holis, do you realize that I might be the most immoral thing in the world. What do they know? I left the boat at Dominica and was away for a whole week."

"Just because you've got money you can buy their good opinion of me. They don't snub me, because they wouldn't offend you. And I think the way they fawn is perfectly sickening! They'd give any thing in the world to be friendly with you. Why, darling, they'll even swallow me!"

HER vehemence amused him.

"It is pretty raw," he admitted. "But what do we care, Orchid?"

"Oh, I don't care," she retorted airily. "It just makes me sick, that's all."

"The Dunks want to have a dinner party for us tonight," he told her.

Ash-to-reth sputtered wrathfully.

"I hope," she declared, "you told them to go to the devil."

"Well, not exactly," he admitted.

A. P. NEWS EDITOR GIVES IMPRESSION HE GOT IN DIXON

Writes Story of City After His Recent Short
Visit Here

Impressions Charles E. Honce, news editor of The Associated Press, received during a visit in Dixon last week, are given in the following story by him, sent to all Illinois A. P. newspapers today.

BY CHARLES E. HONCE
(Associated Press News Editor)

Dixon, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)—New Industry Secured For Dixon by Chamber of Commerce.

This eight column banner head in The Dixon Telegraph served notice that Dixon was entering the new year with eyes to the front.

Incidentally the announcement came just a few hours after contract had been let for the construction of a new bridge across the Rock river, known hereabouts as "The Hudson of the West." And yes, that fine new high school is well under way.

All of which means that Dixon still is a spry youngster in spite of the fact that it is a centenarian. At the stroke of midnight on December 31, 1928, Dixon entered its 101st year, for if you turn back the pages of Illinois history you will find that it was in 1828 that a half breed, Joseph Ogee, built a log cabin and established a ferry across Rock River at the present site of Dixon.

The city was named, however after John Dixon, who came to this locality with his wife and five children in April 11, 1830 to buy out Ogee's claim and operate his ferry. Thus was one Illinois city saved from a comic name.

The town that started out with one inhabitant now has in the neighborhood of 13,000, not a large population to be sure, but of the kind that the Dixon Chamber of Commerce describes as "98 per cent. American." And if you express interest in the Chamber will tell you of Dixon's "twenty-seven prospering industries," or twenty-eight as the count now stands.

Clear-Eyed in 1929
While Dixon is another town looking clear eyed in 1929, it is not hesitant in describing some of the scenes on its century of historic past.

For instance, there is a hotel here known as Nachusa Tavern, which was erected in 1837. This it was re-modeled in 1880 and further rebuilt in 1914, but there still are a few sticks and stones of the original building in evidence.

Many distinguished visitors have signed its register in that long vista of the past, among them Abraham Lincoln, General Grant, Stephen A. Douglas, Bayard Taylor, Horace Greeley, Jefferson Davis, Adeline Patti, Ole Bull, the Marquis of Queensbury, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Henry Ward Beecher and William Jennings Bryan. Yes, and here is William (Boss) Tweed, although no one seems to know what his mission was in Dixon.

Letter From Greeley
The walls are covered with subjects of historic interest. Here is a framed letter from Horace Greeley with the following explanation: "The above letter was received in Dixon in 1855 pertaining to the coming of Horace Greeley to this city. READ IT IF YOU CAN." Nobody has been able to thus far. Greeley's penmanship was notoriously indecipherable.

Dixon somewhat resembles Rome, in that it is built on hills—the number may be more or less than seven. At any rate the main business thoroughfare scoots down one of them to the present bridge over the Rock River. This is a much traveled highway—so busy in fact that the new bridge was necessary.

Here at the river's edge once stood a fort, built at the time of the Black-hawk war in 1832. It is worthy of mention that during this war the fort was the meeting ground of such notables as Col. Zachariah Taylor, later president of the United States, Gen. Winfield Scott, Lieutenant Jefferson Davis and "Private" Abraham Lincoln.

Near where once was a fort there now is an airfield, to bring the scene

When Winter Comes
Are You Stiff, Ache—
All Worn Out?

DOES winter find you lame, tired and aching—worried with backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney excretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage?

These are often signs of sluggish kidneys and shouldn't be neglected. To promote normal kidney action and assist your kidneys in cleansing your blood of poisonous wastes, use Doan's Pills. Recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

50,000 Users Endorse Doan's:

Mrs. M. C. Brown, 442 Wabasha St., Winston-Salem, N. C., says: "I suffered constantly with severe backache and could not do any housework. The action of my kidneys was irregular, and caused me a lot of trouble. I used Doan's Pills and it was not long before the backache stopped and my kidneys were in good order."

to modern times. Dixon has one enterprise that few cities of its size can boast of—a Community Theater. Three hundred citizens went down in their pockets for a quarter of a million dollars to build it.

Mentions Telegraph
One of Dixon's principal industries is directed by a woman, another touch of modernity. Mrs. Mabel S. Shaw publishes the Dixon Telegraph, which is in its seventy-ninth year. It is a member of The Associated Press. B. F. Shaw, the late editor, and the present publisher's father-in-law, was one of twelve editors who met in convention when the republican party was born in Illinois. Lincoln, himself, made the thirteenth at the gathering.

One of the city's beauty spots is Lowell Park, a gift from the late Amy Lowell, the poet. The tract was acquired by Miss Lowell's father many years ago.

A trip over the countryside surrounding Dixon discloses many scenes of beauty, particularly after snow has fallen steadily for more than twenty-four hours. A train down from Freeport cuts a cross section of northern Illinois life—towns and villages, ghostly in their mantles of snow, white meadows and fields, and glistening streams. The snow has covered everything except the fence posts, the trees and the occasional farm house. A few circus posters fluttering on barns are the only reminders of the summer that is past.

And here is a picture that city dwellers have not seen for years, a real sleigh drawn by a span of horses. It must have been dug up from the litter of some old barn for surely no one manufactures sleighs nowadays.

But if you think this is a real snow the trainman soon will set you right. Just eight years ago this January his train was snowbound for thirty-six hours near Dixon. Snow banks then were eighteen feet high. Did the passengers eat during that 36 hours? The trainman answers yes. The baggage car contained a shipment of bologna and two baskets of bread. Here were rations. There was coffee too. The trainman trudged through snowdrifts to a farm house to obtain it.

All of which seems to support the contention that winters are not what they used to be.

ROCHELLE NEWS

Rochelle—A committee composed of two city commissioners, two representatives of the factories and two of the citizens, has been appointed consisting of Messrs. C. E. Gardner, Charles P. Unger, J. A. Herrmann, D. R. Taylor, J. R. Brown and E. W. Breyman, to obtain further information on the power needs of the city of Rochelle.

This committee will visit in the next few days, other cities in Illinois where both utility as well as city or municipal owned power light and water plants are managed, to determine the exact conditions existing in such places, to find out how they are operated and how the people like the conditions.

The committee will report upon their return as to their findings. This appointment is the outgrowth of an earlier committee which was to try to determine whether our city was really up against it as to furnishing adequate power and should sell out to the trust for $650,000 or hold our plant and franchise, and by increasing production, meet the needs required by the expected increased demand.

Word has been received here of the marriage of Aubrey Jay Lind, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lind, to Miss Marie Cass, the ceremony occurring at the home of the bride in Los Angeles, Monday, January 7.

Mr. Lind, who is a graduate of the township high school here, is a musician of note and is now a trap drummer with the orchestra at the El Tatio ball room at Los Angeles, California. Mr. and Mrs. Lind will reside at 235 South Berendo street, Los Angeles, California.

The Northwestern railroad is putting on an extensive campaign to aid the cities or towns is serves to secure additional facilities.

At the next meeting of the Eastern Star which will be held at the Masonic Temple Thursday afternoon, January 17, at 1:00 p. m., a school of instruction will be held.

Mrs. Hilda Berve Waggett, Grand Lecturer and a member of Normal Chapter, DeKalb, will be the instructor. Mrs. Waggett was a former Rochelle resident. It is expected that unusual interest will be shown in this meeting and a large attendance is anticipated.

Through the personal acquaintance of Rev. Frank A. Campbell, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, Rochelle is to have the opportunity to hear the man who is perhaps the greatest lecturer on the subject of "Christian Evidence" that is alive today. One of his testimonials says: "He has given more solid week lectures on 'The Evidences', before popular audiences than any man in the history of Christianity."

Dr. F. E. Springer, LL.D., of the College of Idaho, says: "He is the most dramatic orator upon the American platform. Who's Who in Lyceum, published in Philadelphia, says: 'Rev. John B. Koehn, D. D., LL. D., is a professional lecturer on 'The Evidences of Christianity'. He has given over 4,000 lectures. Revised his series in Oxford, England. His record of more than 400 solid week engagements has never been equaled in the American Lyceum.'"

There will be no admission charged either Tuesday or Wednesday evenings, but offerings will be taken, and the pastor states that they are not expected to be "Penny" offerings.

Dr. Koehn's theme on Tuesday evening will be "An Examination of the Skeptical Theories of Christ", and on Wednesday evening "The Restoration of Christ."

Funeral services for Mrs. Antone Mayer who died at Portland, Oregon, and whose remains were brought here for burial, were held from St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church here, Friday afternoon at 2:30. The pastor, Rev. O. H. Linneke, officiated.

Mrs. Mayer died Sunday, January 6th. The deceased had attained the advanced age of 95. Mr. Mayer passed away about forty years ago. They operate a bakery here years ago and at the time of her death, Mrs. Mayer owned the buildings occupied by Zimmerman Bros. and Barker & Sullivan.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayer were the parents of three children: Anna, who became the wife of George Simons, and who passed away when her son, George, was a mere baby; Carrie who married John Bowie, with whom Mrs. Mayer resided in recent years, and Will Mayer of Portland, Oregon. After the death of Mrs. Simons, Mrs. Mayer took her grandson into her home and took a motherly interest in him.

The pallbearers were: E. T. Beresch, George O'Brien, August Zimmerman, Harry Hall, John Flynn and John B. Hayes. Interment was made in Lawnridge cemetery. Funeral services for Mrs. Harry Felvey were held from St. Patrick's church at 9:30 Saturday morning.
